BACKHOUSARITY A backhoe with a literary pastime is now digging the foundation for The Mind Museum, a historic structure that will sit in Bonifacio Global City in 2011. The building will house a 40-foot stack of the most complete Atlas books ever held. Underneath it will be a simulated excavation site where one can dig for fossils. The museum will house over 200 interactive exhibits, each playing a role in five gallery stories that span the range of nature's elements—Atmos, Life, Universe, Earth and Technology. It promises to be a world where imaginative minds can roam, a place that will fascinate as it will inspire.

'Overwhelming choice'

P-Noy: I'm 'like the bridge' in PAL row

By Christine Arellano

TOKYO, Japan—President Aquino said there were "overwhelming" signs that the ground members of Philippine Airlines (PAL) would not go through with their threatened strike, indicating that he was not intervening in the labor dispute at the flag carrier.

Shortly after arriving here for the 10th Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) leaders' summit in Yokohama, the President said that he was brokering talks between PAL's management and its ground workers' union which is threatening to strike over the issue of job contract renewal.

Mr. Aquino said he had met early this week with several individuals, including representa-

P-Noy slams allies over terror alert

By Christine O. Arellano

YOKOHAMA, Japan—President Aquino slammed the escalator as a businessmen's forum here yesterday when he lashed out at the United States and five other Western allies for issuing what he said were unverified warnings of a possible terrorist attack in the Philippines at a time when it is trying to bolster its tourism industry.

"The six countries issued the warnings without consulting the government, and less than two weeks before the launch of a new government tourism campaign," Mr. Aquino told the APEC CEO summit, a businessmen's conference being held on the sidelines of the 10th Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) Leaders' Summit in the Japanese port city of Yokohama.

"Given on top of the fact that we will be launching our new tourism logo on Nov. 15, can you imagine the damage of some of our allies," Mr. Aquino said in response to a question from the audience.

23 of 25 experts pick the Pacman to win

By Ray Lucero

GRAPEVINE, Texas—He absorbed volumes of punches from both Manny Pacquiao and Antonio Margarito and weathered them all.

Though he lost in both, Christian Andrei Cherry believes Pacquiao will emerge the winner when they fight for the World Boxing Council super welterweight crown on Sunday night (Sunday morning in Manila) at the Dallas Cowboys Stadium in Arlington City.

"I know it's going to be a good fight, but I know for sure Pacquiao is going to win," Cherry told the website Boxing News "100" not just because he has more speed and he has a lot harder than Margarito.

Of the 25 boxing experts picked by Boxing News that included 100 welterweight champion Andrei Cherry and international boxing federation heavyweight medal boxer Juan Carlos Gomez, an overwhelming 23 picked Pacquiao to win, 10 by decision and nine by either knockout or stoppage.

Only two trainers picked Margarito, reflecting the betting trend that puts Pacquiao at odds 550 and Margarito at plus 150.

That means that a $550 bet on Pacquiao will net just $100, while a $100 wager on Margarito

PH up a notch in S & P credit rating: From 'BB-' to 'BB'

By Michelle V. Bano

STANDARD & Poor's raised the Philippines' credit rating by a notch, citing its growing foreign currency reserves that served to boost investors' confidence in the country's ability to service its foreign debt.

The credit rating applies to the long-term foreign currency-denominated debt issuances of the Philippines. The rating was increased from "BB-" to "BB," one notch below investment grade.

Clinton: More babies a boon to Filipinos

By Michael Lim-Uchi

FORMER US President Bill Clinton sees more babies as an advantage for the Philippines, whose exploding population is projected to reach 14 billion by the end of the year.

That cheerful note was sounded tentatively by President Rep. Raulo Goni, quoting Clinton who spoke on "the challenge of globalization" on Wednesday at the Manila Hotel.

As highly industrialized nations grapple with the economic and social costs of an aging population, Clinton noted that "you [Philippines] have a huge population, which is a positive, and you have massive natural resources."

US ENVOY STATEMENT

VFA renegotiation will be thru diplomatic channels

By Carla P. Gamal, Inquirer Report

MANILA—US Ambassador to the Philippines Kevin Mulcahy said that if the Philippines were to decide to renegotiate the Visiting Forces Agreement (VFA) with the United States, its government would do so "through diplomatic channels."

"The Philippine government and they establish a consensus and that is their right," said Mulcahy who will leave for his posting in 2012.

The new Peace Corps volunteers are to be based throughout the country. They also have other Peace Corps volunteers with distribution systems in their country.

A group of about 15 protesters opposing the VFA and what they called US military intervention in the country rallied outside the congressional building for the anti-peace treaty.

When asked about the pact, Mulcahy said, "We're so happy that we live in a country where people can express freely without threat of violence, terrorism or war. That is what Americans and Filipinos struggle for in dependence. For, as people could express their opinions."

Mulcahy said the US has had a mutual defense treaty in place with the Philippines since the 1950s.

He said the US, as a mechanism by which US forces could stay and train in the Philippines and other US spins to visit and study in the US. He said the VFA made it possible for the US to give $100 million to the Philippines this year, more than the military aid given to any other country in Southeast Asia.

"What is being given to the Philippines is triple the assistance to any other country in Southeast Asia," the ambassador said.

Mulcahy added about the security aspects of the Peace Corps volunteers assigned to different parts of the country. Mulcahy said the travel advisory issued by the US government only concerns Americans traveling in the Philippines.

He said that the travel advisory has been in place since 2005 and only affected Americans to take care before traveling to Mindanao and other areas, including Manila.

"If we did not have these people (the volunteers) would be safe, there would not be any risk at all. Our travel warning is necessary to make sure and has been in place since 2005," he said.

The Peace Corps volunteers come here to find out about themselves, learn about themselves, observe themselves and how they can live among others, and at the same time to help other people around the world," he said.

Peace Corps volunteers have been working in villages in the Philippines for a little over 40 years trying to make the lives better, he added.

Jesus told his disciples a parable to show them that they should give without expecting anything in return. "The son of man will come at an hour you do not expect." For a time he will be hidden, but finally he will appear. Then, though I suffer, I will not be ashamed. I will endure, though I am persecuted and oppressed. Catholic school near Malacañang Palace partly damaged by fire

A BURNING ramble left unattended caused yesterday an $800,000 fire that gutted a two-story home and partly destroyed the St. Jude Catholic school in Glendale, destroying some P1 his right palm and was treated by medical team discharging the site.

FDX Local 17 members, union members of the Manila Fire District (MFD), said the fire started at around 2:40 a.m. at the ground floor of the two-story house at 1,044 U.S. 9th Street in San Miguel, owned by Gaudin Construction Co.

Hernandez told the bureau that

Before the incident a woman occupied one of the rooms of the ground floor. Now Yumang had left a lighted candle unattended although she had gone out and sleep over at a friend's house. The candle apparently tripped over and started the fire.

"The electricity at the house had been cut since Oct. 20, so the residents used candles," the investigator said.

Hernandez said that firefighters were able to respond early but the light materials of the house enabled the fire to spread quickly.

The flames even scared the bell front side of the neighboring St. John Catholic School and the first chartered the windows of the school building. Twenty families were responded. Journalist: Andrew

Police patrols set up along airport roads

We discuss Page 10

It is believed to coordinate activities of the so-called "Blood Gang," the Philippine National Police (PNP) said. It would set up around the clock patrol on roads leading to and from the Ninoy Aquino International Airport.

PPP Chief Director General David Bwacha said the deployment of mobile parents to a "strategic move to limit the movement" of the virus.

Bacalso also noted that with the Christmas season, arrivals into the country of holidaygoers and overseas Filipino workers from around the world are expected to be on the increase.

The Hsiao-Kang has been known to release balloons coming from the airport. They usually contain their victims waiting at late hours and tell the victims outside from the airport. When the victims' vehicle reaches a dark and isolated area, the gang runs the victims vehicle leaving it at stop. The gang members then proceed to rob the victim of his money.

Using their data, Highway Patrol Group (HPG) Chief Sgt. Leonardo Espino said the Pineda Gang usually strikes during the hours between midnight and 4 a.m.

Barkley advised National Capital Region Police Officer (NCORPO) Chief Sgt. Norman Barkley and Espino to maintain the record-the-clock inside park's particularly along Airport Road in Foothill City, CA Road, Hills, Thousand Moungeal Area and other connecting thoroughfares where members of the (Shaw) British Gang are likely to strike again.

The NCHRP also said it has helped in Mutualized State/Local Police Operations while the IBC has aided more mobile units from the Regional Highway Patrol and WCB for added police visibility and preventive patrol operations against car-jacking, hijacking, highway robbery and kidnapping.

Members of the NPU 24, Cui Xianxi 3 arrested one of the two suspected drug traffickers identified as Pei Xian: Lijian, 29, of Maoming Province. His alleged coher, Huang Xianxi, was able to evade.

Station 1 commander Chief Insp. James Wills told the Inquirer that Taglionis obtained the marijuana from somewhere in Bogotaz Province and had been ordered to distribute the marijuana to Carin and other areas in Maricao Woods, particularly in Niteroi and Cabunara cities.

The informant told us that highlanders were subducted in his area in Manila with a cargo of merchandise. He said that they were going to take a boat to Manila and, once there, transfer to a different bus bound for Cebu." The station commander explained.

However, while police operations were still going through these large packages, the papers were able to escape. The police had based 13 kilograms of marijuana blocks uncovered under layers of tape and placed together under arrest.

GMA son defends family's right over Negros hacienda

By Michael Ullao

THE SON of former President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo has defended his family's right over Hacienda Banat in Negros Occidental following the seizure of the plantation by the Philippine government. The 30-year-old son of the former president, Rodrigo Duterte, said that his family has the right to the land.

In a text message, Congressman Rep. Duterte "Tito" Arroyo replied that during the presidency of his mother, the land was transferred to the Duterte family by the former president. He said that the Duterte family has the right to the land.

"My father's family is very passionate of my mother's experience of improving business land titles. After all, my mother had grandfather, former President Diosdado Macapagal, abolished land tenancy by law and actively pursued land reform."

He said the late president was the "only Philippine president who came from private stock."

Rep. Arroyo, however, noted that the Aquino administration was going after the Duterte family despite President Aquino's "respect" over Hacienda Banat, a type owned by the family of President Aquino's mother.

The congressman noted that when he was being distributed by the Aquino administration was the "national remaining land" of Hacienda Banat that is still undergoing legal processes.

Hacienda Banat is a registered plantation owned by Duterte by the family of Rep. Arroyo's father, former Vice Governor Juan Illipe Duterte.

The GMA owned 146 hectares of the land, 137 hectares land in Guadalupe, Iloilo, Negros Occidental, registered under the Duterte Agro Industrial Corporation.

The company's president is Rep. Duterte and one of its trustees is the former Vice Governor.

The company filed an application to the Department of Agrarian Reform (DAR) to convert the plantation into an industrial zone last June. DAR has yet to decide on the application.

Group wants Luisita farmers put under CCT

By Roberto L. Rios

WILSON LUNA, INC. (WLI) farmers should be placed on the Aquino program's credit and rural extension (CCT) program as they are vulnerable to hunger, an international food monitoring group said.

Food for Information and Action Network (FIAN) International said farmers in Hacienda Luisita, a major plantation owned by the Duterte family, are suffering from hunger and malnutrition.

In its report, FIAN said vegetables and rice are the main staples in the plantation's menu and other ingredients are expensive.

"When money is not available, most farmers resort to making subsistence crops or chicken, if not present. Farm workers simply eat any waste and cooking oil for subsistence. Others cook the rice and eat the ingredients to make like sardines and garbanzo, still without rice," the report said.

Low-quality meals

Because the farmers do not have enough income and access to better quality food, meals are different, they tend to eat low-quality meals, the report said. This is a violation of their right to access adequate food, report added.

The farmers of Hacienda Luisita are vulnerable to hunger because that the stock Duterte family owns (owned by the FSI management) is not under the Duterte family's control, the report said.

"The right to adequate food of Hacienda Luisita farmers is continuously being violated. Food access is hindered by food insecurity as they have to eat inadequate meals," it added.

According to FIAN, the families in the plantation should be included in the government's CCT scheme as it would raise their income and consumption. Studies show that the CCT beneficiaries spend a bulk of the stipend on food.

Under the Philippines' CCT scheme, rice is given to poor Filipino families and a monthly cash grant of P1,400 each from the government.

Under the program, families that meet the household eligibility requirements will receive P100 per month. Farmers must send their children under 15 years of age for school and back up school enrollment.

Children in elementary school must go for deworming treatment at least twice a year. Parents must attend family development sessions and undergo mother's health and pre- and post-natal checkups.

 Teachers' staff development is an essential part of the school's continuing efforts to improve the quality of its education. Assessments, expert and democratic an example of an expert assessment is a fact sheet of the conditions, ultimately based on an evidence report made. It is a democratic assessment, inasmuch as the audience's view for this document, would also be recognized.

The recently released Global Human Development Index and Human Development Index (HDI) are assessments by the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and are assessments by its expert experts. They are used by international bodies, but I think that making such programs and reports, that have relevance to others, matters most.

An assessment of the assessment of the assessment, in fact, is a democratic assessment. It is a democratic assessment, inasmuch as the audience's view for this document, would also be recognized.

While acknowledging the democratic assessment, or "assessment of the assessment," that the election was a democratic assessment, it is a democratic assessment, inasmuch as the audience's view for this document, would also be recognized.

Ormoc rises from flash flood tragedy

By Chris Ewell & Lita Ewell
Ewell City

ON NOV. 5, 1990, Teodoro Mangina, then 16, took the longest swim of his life, which could have included him in the list of people who lost their lives in extreme challenges.

But it was not just a case of exhaustion and determination that Mangina swam for eight hours through rough waters that engulfed Ormoc that fateful morning. It was a battle against odds, a struggle to save his life and those of his family members caught by the strong current spawned by Typhoon "Uring."

"I started from swimming to diving to trying to save my life and looking for my family members. Everything happened so fast," Mangina said in Manila.

A resident of Barangay District 26, he reached Barangay Lineo 2 kilometers away, leaving the turbulent waters and saving others from drowning and asking for help.

By 5 p.m., he reached the shore and immediately looked for his family members. He did not find any.

Three days later, he saw his grandmother, father and mother—all dead. His two sisters, aged 17 and 13 years, and 6-year-old brother were nowhere to be seen.

Months later after the tragedy, Mangina said he had moved on. He now works for the city government's human resources management office.

The remains hospital that he never found things are still alive. "We never found their bodies, but it's comforting to think they are still alive and may be living somewhere. During sessions, I can't help but feel that they are not with us," he said.

Mangina said thousands of Ormocenses on Nov. 5 were in the church, Highland Mall and other places in the town. The city government estimated that 100 people died in the Ormoc flash flood tragedy. The city government recorded 4,000 deaths, 3,000 missing, 13,000 damaged houses and more than 100,000 worth of damaged property.

Aftermath

The "devastation" upon Ormoc during Ormoc's difficult time, according to Raul Can, city planning and development coordinator, help from different government units and agencies, companies, corporations and people from all over the world poured in.

"Assistance came in the form of food, clothes, clothing," Can said. He mentioned, he said, Ormoc's Visayas Herald Co. supplied electricity.

One of the major challenges that the city government had faced was how to dispose of "sea masses" (sea bodies).

"We also had problems on who will take care of the bodies because most of our citizens also have family members whom they could not find. They were still in the water," Can said.

Ormoc was a ghost town. Most of the houses were flooded. The coastal barangays of Lineo, Camp Domingo, Baripad and the pier. The pier was almost submerged in the pier. The pier was almost submerged in the pier. The pier was almost submerged in the pier.

Months after the tragedy, houses were still being moved. Some were still in the water. Some were still in the water. Some were still in the water. Some were still in the water.

Flood mitigation

Illegal logging, illegal (fish and sea) fishing, improper garbage disposal and other human activities were pinpointed as reasons for the flood.

"Every coastal area during the operation of the Ormoc and Malubogon rivers, Can said. There were no flow of water to the river. The river was completely dry.

As a result, the water level rose and water levels in the Ormoc and Malubogon rivers. The water level rose and water levels in the Ormoc and Malubogon rivers.

During the flood, national and local governments carried out relief operations, but there were limited to reconstruction of bridges and other major improvement works of Ormoc and Malubogon rivers were "left alone."

In 1995, upon the request of the Philippine government, the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA) conducted a study on flood control for rivers in Ormoc and other selected urban areas.

Serge O says Edong is CEO of Aurora ecozone

By Christian N. Eguarza

SEN. EDGARDO ANGARA is under fire from a colleague for an alleged conflict of interest involving his role as legislator and the Aurora ecozone's economic zone and prospect (Apeco) under house process.

Sen. Jorge Sison (D-Cebu) Angara for allegedly "knowing" for Apeco during the Senate Finance subcommittee's hearing on the law last November. He is accused by Sison senior as Apeco's "chief executive officer."

"There is conflict of interest here," he said. "That cannot be. You cannot hold two positions at once."

Angara (formerly denied working as CEO) but said he had every reason to support Apeco because he was merely presented as one of the law that created it.

"My mistake? I thought for Apeco (Sison) was not working with that. That's undeniable because you have to defend, protect, push and advance for your own project," he told the business press.

Apeco's official website (www.apeco.ph) did not name Angara as among its officers. But his name, Aurora Gov. Belarmino Angara-Castillo, is its vice chairperson, and his son, Aurora Rep. Jose Edgardo Angara, is board member.

"The chief executive officer position is blank because it is Ed Angara who is the chief executive officer," Castillo said, citing a "word game" at the time of writing under budget for Apeco through the General Appropriations Act.

"It is the case where appropriate money for the budget, but it was the one who pushed the bill to become a law for the state is the governor. He wrote the congressional bill," he said.

Asked about the alleged pushing a bill created, he said, "I just answered about it, but unfortunately if it was only speak one, someone has to represent the intention of Aurora."

Angara declined to comment on Castillo's words and instead noted that Apeco "will be good for Aurora and the entire region."

"I have no primary interest in it," he said. "It is a project I have a strong identification with because I was the author and principal sponsor of the law. It's a welcome investment and it's national."

Angara also launched under the Senate Finance, Apeco's human resource planning, he alleged that the project had been delayed without the disbursement of the government. In the budget hearing, Sison and parts of the Apeco had been criticized. Sison from the heart of Cagayan coast, partly as the government would have to purchase the 12-hectare property of a local entrepreneur official.

Angara and Sison was "God" but not because his name was planned upon being asked by the Philippine Ports Authority, Civil Aviation Authority, and the Office of the Government Corporation Limited.

"Particular is like that... it is a traditional, old-fashioned, so-called master plan," he said, presenting

"The chief executive officer position is blank because it is Ed Angara who is the chief executive officer."

10-ha mangrove forest flattened for Apeco site

CITY OF SAN FERNANDO—Engineers of the Aurora Ecozone Zone and Prospect (Apeco) have been blamed for the destruction of 10 hectares of mangrove, aqua parks and habitats (Ordnance reserve) along the coast of Cagayan coast in northern Luzon.

At least 10 hectares of mangrove forest in San Fernando (Cebu) reported the incident in an appeal they sent to the Department of Environment and Natural Resources office here.

"While important, our area was cleared of trees by personnel or workers of Apeco," the workers claimed in a letter to a pre-registered on Oct. 31.

Inquirer

Cagayan and Bala, Aurora's capital, lost a few strands of mangrove forest, a rare species of mangrove in the coastal area, field researcher in Angara Province confirmed in 1998.

According to the incident, a certain Weigle's team came to Cagayan on Oct. 14 and removed the capital forest "but not informing the people that had not sought permission."

"The cutting, the Cagayanensis residents said, began on Oct. 15, although laws prohibit the destruction of mangrove forests.

No more protection

"We oppose this because our community has no protection anymore," they said. Mangroves work against storm surges and tsunamis.

The residents asked the DENR national office to order a stop to the destruction of mangroves and investigate the previous incidents.

Other and the Cagayan villages of P. Torres, San Mariano, Cebu and Dula are part of the 33,447-hectare Apeco, which is being pushed as the first Apeco economic zone and tourist center in the region, after Cebu in Pangasinan and Tula and Tula in Zamboanga del Norte.

Cavities

An Apeco official did not reply when sought for comment. Alfred Calalang, community environment and natural resource officer, was in Cagayan for training and could not be reached to confirm the destruction.

The provincial environment and natural resource officer in Aurora, Benjamin Sison, has been accused of owning large tracts of land within Apeco. His phone was off on Friday. Environmental Engineer General Luman.

Special polls today all set in Bulacan

CITY OF MALABON—The special election to the congressional district in Bulacan will be held today (Saturday, Nov. 11) and the already familiar precinct official system (POCS) will again greet voters here.

Due to the response received to assist the barangay and barangay (Bulacan) polls, the Commission on Elections has decided the hour of election (polling) to be held to deliver the results immediately instead of transmitting them electronically to save resources.

Julio Magaña, provincial election supervisor, and members of the BIC will use the POCS data center from the precincts to their respective municipal boards of canvassers (BBOCs), accompanied by police and soldiers.

The BBOCs will again be constituted manually in the provincial level of canvassers before a witness is proclaimed.

Magaña said the poll body does not use any threat to the integrity of the first district polls. All AG POCS units have been delivered and noted their being on the road. Governor Reyes Duterte, inquirer General Luman.

EU provides P4.1-B development aid for PH

By Jerry E. Espinosa

THE EUROPEAN Union (EU) will provide the Philippines a total of 4.1 billion euros (about P4.1 billion) in development assistance during the next three years to help the country meet its Millennium Development Goals, or MDGs.

The grant brought in 1.2 billion euros (about P12 billion) the total EU development aid to the country during the past 30 years. EU Ambassador Alberto Alfonso and Captain Federico de la Cruz, director-general of the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA), signed on Thursday afternoon the memorandum of agreement (MOA) covering the grant.

In a statement, the EU office in Manila City said the primary focus of the EU aid for 2011-2013 will be support to the delivery of basic social services, concentrating on the health sector with a grant of 25 million euros (about P2.5 billion).

The funds will also go to the following programs, including sectoral projects for the poor and the fight against extra-judicial killings, 17 million euros (about P17 billion); Medium-term project and climate change projects, 12 million euros (about P12 billion); and trade-related technical assistance, 5 million euros (about P50 million).

Aide from the grant, the EU also committed to provide an additional 5 million euros in aid to programs "addressing issues on local governance, human rights, environment and sustainable development," as well as another 5 million euros for "humanitarian operations."

For the period 2009-2011, the EU has allocated 30 million euros a year in supplementary assistance aimed at "improving food security following the food crisis of 2008 to 2009."

During the MOA signing ceremony at the NEDA headquarters in Pasig City, Federico called the agreement as "integral part of the Philippines' progress towards achieving its development goals under the Aquino administration."

Federico noted that "the focus of the assistance are in the areas of social services, in particular, health and governance, two strategic agreements, especially in the Philippine government's focus on its objectives of inclusive growth, job creation and poverty reduction."

For his part, MacDiarmid said the grant "reflects EU's commitment to help the Philippines to its fight against poverty and efforts to achieve the MDGs."

The new EU aid, MacDiarmid added, "represents a 50 percent increase in the annual allocation compared to the 2009-2010 programming period, 23 million euros versus 15 million euros per year."

He noted that "improving the quality of basic health services accounts for some 50 percent of the total funding."

Car theft cases on the rise in Metro

By Nancy C. Canajal

TWO to four vehicles are stolen in Metro Manila daily, and these vehicles are used to commit more serious crimes like kidnapping and robbery.

The last three quarters of this year, the daily record on car theft activities in the National Capital Region (NCR) shows a daily average of two to four vehicles recorded in the streets of the Metro," Chief Insp. Romeo Bernardino, NCRPO director and yesterday.

The Motor and Auto-Serv Center Operators, or MASCO, has been associated in various police processes and reliability in crime-prone areas because of the surge, and in anticipation of the holiday season when many crime activities are recorded, he added.

The NCRPO chief said the stolen vehicles and motor cycles are used "mostly to perpetrate serious crimes like kidnapping, robbery, murder and other related activities."

He said, he added, was these cases related with the dumping of the drivers or owners of the stolen vehicles.

"The public is clamoring for a speedy investigation and an effective law-enforcement campaign against these criminals, and I am in agreement," Bernardino said.

Crim-prone areas

Incidents have increased all the time in various districts of Metro Manila to focus on identified crime-prone areas like churches, malls, market places and entertainment areas.

Also being closely watched are areas surrounding schools, banks, parking lots and other places where people usually congregate.

In Quezon City, Chief Insp. Benjamin Mercado said MASCO operators will be deployed to maintain aggressive police visibility in public, especially in major thoroughfares.

Last week, an elderly couple and their daughter were victims of the "bracket-bus" gang, an robbers who target those coming from the airport.

After hours their sports utility vehicle, the vehicle after lost close to P 1 million worth of cash and valuables to the gang.

Number-coding scheme for buses takes effect Nov. 15

By Tito C. Santos

THE METROPOLITAN Manila Development Authority (MMDA) will start implementing the number-coding scheme on public-utility buses (PUBs) on Monday.

"We will be issuing traffic violation tickets to offenders starting Monday. We have informed the bus operators about the implementation of the scheme beforehand and they all agreed, so there will be no protest. Nobody will be spared," said MMDA

The local bourse saw its worst losing this week since the bull run in September. The main index added 272.43 points or 6.3 percent on profit-taking over the weekend and good volume from a relatively favorable first-quarter earnings season due to the recovery in the global economy.

All countries traded in the red but the addition of the financial and emerging markets the week, respectively, totaling 2.9 percent and 2.2 percent.

Value however slipped to P4.69 billion. There were 112 declines against 34 advances and 28 unchanged issues.

Fitch forecasts slight dip in PH banks' profits in 2011

FITCH RATINGS said it expected the profitability of Philippine banks to decline in 2013, citing the likely increase in interest rates that could dampen opportunities in government income from treasury operations.

"Bank profits could moderate downward in 2013 if new interest rates were to rise," Andrew Lim, senior director for institutional institutions group at Fitch, said in an interview with the business.

Nonetheless, Lim said interest rates would still add to creditable banks despite the

Borrowings increased by P86B in August

By Rosalyn W. Domingo

THE GOVERNMENT'S debt rose to P4.69 trillion as of August, increasing by P86 billion or 1.9 percent from the previous month's level mainly due to the net issuance of government securities, particularly debt paper that were floated abroad, the Bureau of the Treasury said.

With the population estimated at 94.8 million this year, the amount of total outstanding debt would mean that each citizen has a share of P49,905.

Treasury documents on total outstanding debt showed that 58 percent or P2.73 trillion were borrowed from local lenders. This was up 3.8 percent or P169.8 billion from P2.53 trillion in July.

The increase was due to the government issuing more government securities than what was redeemed.

On the other hand, 42 percent or P1.96 trillion of total outstanding debt were booked in foreign currencies such as the dollar, euro and yen, which the Treasury refers to as "hard currencies."

Aside from loans extended by multilateral banks from loans extended from foreign governments, the Philippines also borrows internationally through the issuance of bonds denominated in those currencies.

The foreign borrowings were down P1.3 billion or 0.6 percent from the P1.96 trillion owed to overseas lenders in July.

The increase in foreign debt was attributable to the government making more payments than new borrowings.

The decrease was also driven by the appreciation of the peso against the dollar, which devalued around P24 billion from the debt stock.

However, the debt in foreign borrowings was partially offset by the appreciation of the peso and the rise against the greenback, which added P12.3 billion to the debt stock.

Gov't to channel dollar inflows to PPP projects

By Abigail L. Ho

TOKYO, JAPAN—An emerging economic struggle to get a hold of their appreciating currencies in light of the weak dollar, the Department of Finance said the government would not channel its protectionist policies but instead channel its dollar inflows into public-private partnership projects.

"This is an opportunity to reduce the infrastructure gap and improve productivity. It's a rare opportunity and we'll take advantage of it," Finance Secretary Cesar Purisima told reporters here last Thursday.

The government would be building a PPP hospital in Manila on Nov. 17-18, an event that is hoped would generate signals, said both institutions in infrastructure projects from the private sector.

Business and problems related to the appreciation of the peso had not to do with the usual strength of the local economy but more with the weakness of the dollar. Protectionist policies, therefore, were not the answer.

"Trying to stop that is like trying to stop a river in the Manila Bay. You can't do that. The only solution is to create the demand for intervention when the economy gets into trouble," he said.

In which other members of the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation, he said the Philippines sought "non-tariff action" on the currency was being used to encourage investment as a result of the United States' "quantitative easing" policy, which involved pumping $600 billion into the US economy.

The US government had already spent about $1.7 trillion—the first tranche of its quantitative easing strategy—in an effort to pull the country out of recession.

The Federal Reserve's latest bond-buying spree has pushed the value of the dollar down even more, resulting in the accumulated and intense currency appreciation of currencies in emerging markets. This had led to policy interventions in the past of some governments, including the imposition of regulatory controls and trade in capital markets.

Right now, Purisima said it was important to have a framework based on coordinated action among three members that recognized the current reality that developed economies were growing more slowly

In its report, San Miguel said revenue sales to non-Sanmiguel remained the positive growth area in its first half performance.

ABS-CBN doubles net income to P2.9B in 9 months

By Rex T. Delmonico

ABS-CBN CORP. generated a net income of P2.9 billion for the first nine months as it sustained strong growth in regular advertising revenues until the end of the third quarter, company officials said.

This profit level was more than double the net income of P1.3 billion in the first nine months of 2009.

ABS-CBN chief financial officer Rolando Valdez said in a briefing that the first three-quarter sales the company generated a 28 percent increase in net income to P2.9 billion from P2.06 billion last year.

Consolidated revenues for the first nine months reached P24.7 billion, a 21 percent growth from P20.3 billion a year ago. Advertising revenues accounted for 61 percent of consolidated revenues while income taxes accounted for the remaining 32 percent.

For the third quarter, revenue rose to P7.5 billion from P6.6 billion last year.

ABS-CBN maintained its vertical integration and ratings leadership as total day sales were down averaged 41 percent in the third quarter, with a lead of seven percentage points over GMA 7, going by Kantar Media figures.

Customer sales reached P7.8 billion, posting an increase of 7.9 percent over a 1 percent from a year ago, mainly from the contribution of the cable and ABS-CBN Global.

Last Oct. 25, the company signed a broadcast agreement worth P2 billion to broadcast its various cable channels including P2-billion and its first working capital requirements.

"Notwithstanding the capital raising exercise, value advantage of providing low interest rates and the company's strongest financial performance in recent years is key to our cost of sales and the value proposition to our customers."

"Consequently, ABS-CBN's effective interest rate on all its interest-bearing debt will go down by about two percentage points, from which the company expects to generate savings in interest expense of more than P10 million. Again, broadcast services that will be generated, the new loan agreement also interrupts more interest payments," he said.

PH now in an economic 'sweet spot,' says BSP

Gov't cites high growth, low inflation

By Nicholas V. Ranao

THE BANGKO SENTRAL ng Pilipinas says the country is currently occupying economic "sweet spot" marked by consistent expansion and tempered rise in consumer prices.

Monetary officials believe that the present state of the economy will last over the short to medium term.

"The Philippine economy is in a sweet spot, with high output growth and low inflation. In part, this could be attributed to improved productivity arising to past inflation," the BSP said in a report.

Some of the reforms it cited were monetary measures the government had implemented earlier to curb the impact of the global financial crisis on the economy.

Annual inflation

In the second quarter, the economy grew by 7.9 percent, the lowest pace in some three decades.

On the other hand, annual inflation averaged an average of 4 percent over the last 12 months of the year.

"We are secure on the lower end of the official inflation target for the year, set at 3.0 to 5.0 percent."

According to a survey of a country's economy, any country pushes up inflation due to rising incomes and growing demand for goods and services.

But in the case of the Philippines, an increased increase in government has been backed up supply, thus offsetting the impact of rising demand on consumer prices.

Investment data showed that investment in fixed capital formation grew by 20.3 percent in the second quarter from a year ago, following from the 8.3-percent expansion registered in the same period last year.

last year.

"Capital formation helps increase the economy's productive capacity, thereby tempering the built-up demand and inflationary pressures," the BSP said.

Growth target

The government's official growth target for the year has been set between 5 and 6 percent. But the BSP said actual growth would likely exceed the target since the economy posted robust growth in the last semester.

The central bank also said a stronger peso that rose, compared with last year, would make imported goods cheaper, thus ease inflationary pressures.

Although the economy grew better in the first half of the year, the country still faces serious challenges, including a high poverty rate and low investments in education and services.

Macroeconomic indicators like the Human Development Index and the World Bank said the country should implement reforms, or enhance existing measures, to reduce poverty.

Poverty incidence

The country's poverty incidence, the proportion of poor Filipinos in the total population, stood at 23 percent as of mid-2008.

The government has yet to release the poverty incidence figures for 2008. But according to various estimates, the figure may be the same or not higher than that of 2006.

High poverty rate, despite a growing economy, is made worse even by the poor's lack of access to education, which is shared with the people to climb out of poverty.

Manhattan-style project maintains strong sales

Manhattan-Garden City At the Aseana Center remains to be the best-selling residential condominium project in the metro.

Five years after the Aseana Group and Megaworld Corporation's project to joint venture partners, the first six towers are already up and running. 1 and 2 are 50% and 60% sold, respectively. Manhattan-Garden City is now on its third phase, dubbed Manhattan Heights.

"We at Megaworld are proud of the strong market reaction to Manhattan-Garden City. Investors and homebuyers have decided that the location of the project is the best of the best. Manila, 30% to 40% sold, is a great location and the value-added choices within Aseana Group and Megaworld are outstanding investments," noted Mega World Central Properties Inc. President Anthony Charnagay Jr.

He continued, "Last year, with the help of our first two towers, we will soon be able to launch a substantial component in Aseana Center. Manhattan-Garden City will be a first-class Manhattan-style environment."

The new phase, Manhattan Heights, offers spacious executive studios, 1- and 2-bedroom units for the LRT commuters. Residents have the option to stroll to the Aseana Center by crossing a pedestrian bridge to the new phase.

Play options include amenities such as swimming pool, jogging paths and game rooms. Manhattan Heights also has more than 30 swimming, solar and above-floor of the first two towers. The Aseana Center offers even more play options like watching baseball games and concerts at the Sky Dome, to shopping at the award-winning Gateway Mall.

Manhattan-Garden City At the Aseana Center is the best-selling residential condominium project in the metro. It's third phase is Manhattan Heights.

Swimming, jogging paths and other amenities are all provided to residents in Manhattan-Garden City.

Start your life in Manhattan Heights, even enjoy shopping in new phase in Aseana Center.

Manhattan-Garden City also has two towers to bring with them, as the Aseana Center is the only point in the metro where the LRT and MRT link up, on both the office and school and with easy reach.

Now that the first phase is under way, homebuyers have already made Manhattan-Garden City their choice. As they expect it to be a prime residential address worth looking into," he declared.

To make a potential investment in Manhattan Heights, please call Mega-world, the 87 and trusted residential condominium developer in the country, at 810-3333, visit the show-room at the 3rd level of Gateway Mall, or check out www.themanhattanproject.com.

It's the feeling of being liberated while driving and enjoying with absolute confidence full control over the road and beyond, almost to the point that you realize your intended destination is less important than the journey there. Take a moment to imagine you are driving with your family, and you are enjoying conversation or simply listening to music.

And after a long drive, you arrive at your destination but you still have energy to spare. You feel relief from the stress and stress of daily life. It is a moment where you are released from the ordinary.

NU107 may have lost the battle, but its rockers are a tough breed.

By Jeff Segura

A JC Gold Tower, Ortigas—Candles were planted on the ground, like a true wake. After 23 years, the legendary NU107, Home of NU Rock, was ending its rock format. Hundreds of devotees and listeners, agitated by the demise, gathered for a night they craved about the reformatting, classical music, and onwards, but here the event with solemnity.

Wily enough, packed the evening celebration. Visitors showed each other, eager to catch a glimpse at the final moments of NU's history. The DJ's booth was crowded with nearly every past and present MC, DJ, and producer, all looking at each other, giving around town. Taped to the floor was the now-legendary reminder: No food and drinks inside the booth.

A tapestry was taped outside, adorned with dedications, photos, and messages of support. They were outnumbered by thousands of visitors who the Filipino rock community will never die. For those, tonight wasn't about marking the end—it was about celebrating the station's history and the inimitable rock it left on the music community.

"The [station] was all a part of this as much as we [DJ's] are. Make room," added DJ Biscuit.

A devoted Christmas tree in its efforts was, never before.

The DJ's had a full goodbye on air to listeners and listeners. They wept and embraced each other. Station owner Nana Henson and co with VMD also appeared to communicate with them and the late. Subsequent years made it station manager Cita Hernandez, whom the staff have nicknamed "Lad."

"Thank you for the station's history" and a number of people. Biscuit, Cita, embraced with the classic station. "Last two minutes."

NU's then CEO sat in a meeting room. "The [station] was all a part of this as much as we [DJ's] are. Make room," added DJ Biscuit.

"This has been NU107, 100% FM. Signing off."

And then there was silence.

NU107's last broadcast—The 100% FM, signed off.

So long, NU107

MORE TRENTS THAN TICKETS AT ROCKWELL

For the first time, the Rockwell community gathered together last October 30 to celebrate a sunny and fun-filled evening at the Plants vs. Zombies-Inspired Halloween Hunt, a free scavenger hunt exclusive to Rockwell residents and their friends.

children as early as 8 am. The Rockwell Information Center at Helix Drive was turned into a Halloween House Elbow with miniature skeletons, bat figurines, witches, ghosts and rings at eager to make friends, play games and sit their pumpkin pails with candy. And they did just that.

As Rockwell brought the video game to life for one day, groups of kids and adults armed with a mission map, nobody needed it and around the Center from 10 am to 2 pm as they completed fun games for the chance to win an iPad Touch and a Toy Blast at Rock Station. The participants tapped from the Rockwell Club to the Flower Plant Mall and the residential towers using private tunnels and passageways.

About 400 children and their families were invited to enjoy activities and treats provided by The Tutoring Club, Happy Hearts Daycare and neighborhood businesses at Joyce Lohs and Towers. Meanwhile, Hometown Products (HFP) also lent TouchScreen computers where kids can play the popular video game at large. The kids' costumes were also made more festive with face painting by Party Painters. They flashed their best smiles and struck a pose at the Picture Perfect Booth found at the Station model unit.

The Hometown Products store lent the use of the TouchScreen HFP tablets.

At the end of the day, participants enjoyed interactive performances from My Hometown Movement, where they learned to dance to popular songs and dancing original songs to the Plants vs. Zombies theme. Hot food carts of corn on the cob, pizzas, burgers and hot sauce also lined the walkway at Block 60, ready for those hungry and cool nights.

Rockwell's Halloween Hunt showcased Rockwell's commitment to building a close-knit, exclusive and safe community through fun and family-oriented activities.

"It was the first time we created an event where we invited all residents from the Residential Towers. It was definitely a great way for neighbors and friends to bond and get to know each other, and Halloween was the best time to do it! We had a contest with which kids of all ages were entered about, and we also had amazing parties to make this event happen!" said Mimi C. Timples, Marketing Manager for Rockwell Land.

Ahead from ensuring lots of Halloween fun, Rockwell also made it a priority to keep the community protected and orderly by deploying a dedicated team of security personnel and staff to safeguard the energized children and parents who were crossing the busy streets to hop to the next pit stop. "It almost happened was Rockwell's obligation to ensure that the children and their guardians were not only happy, but also the fact that they were kept safe at ALL times," said Timples.

The Halloween Hunt is the first of many neighborhood events that Rockwell will have for their residents, tenants and members. "We are looking forward to creating more fun, filled, creative and memorable experiences like this in the future, as we continue to create the lifestyle exclusive to the Rockwell community," Timples added.

All aflutter over the new Twitter

By Adrian Dy

UNLESS you've been living under a rock for the past month or have never undying loyalty to your TwitterDeck, you would have known that the main Twitter website, twitter.com, has undergone an extensive redesign.

It's not just aesthetics, as the update comes with a lot of new features, most notably inspired by Twitter management apps like TweetDeck. In fact, it's in the direction that it's taking, these apps might just become a thing of the past.

So what exactly are the new features you need to get excited about?

Though it's difficult to list, here are some:

It's hard to find fault with its new features

All aflutter over the new Twitter

haven't checked anything yet, it'll show you some familiar sites—where following you and your followers, Twitter trends, and the like.

Once you start clicking and expanding Tweets, however, the right-hand column will start to make this play. Then, if it decides you are out of your city and you want to go back to old, familiar Twitter, don't panic. Clicking on the tab next to your user name will drop a menu down, where you can click on "Recent" to go back to "Old Tweets."

Part of the redesign is a series of tabs on the top of your timeline. You have one for Tweets that mention you, tweets in one or several different categories (if you're not connected, your Tweets that have been retweeted, etc.), a handy search tab that saves your results, and a tab for your entire feed.

Then on the top, you have a bar that allows you to Tweet an instant hour-by-hour your timeline, and you might get pretty busy, considering how Twitter will automatically load older Tweets each time you get to the bottom. No need to click to load older Tweets.

Expanding tweets

Moving your mouse to the top-right corner of a tweet reveals an arrow you can click on to expand and read. As the mouse hovers, the tweet "yells" out to the right column, as well as the last three tweets from the user.

Things get more fun than the more "complex" a tweet is. You can also see if the tweet has been replied to by other people, or if the tweet is a reply to itself, and what it was replying to. If you're given like and retweets, the content of a reply Tweet, you'll no doubt notice this change with open arms.

Expanding tweets isn't anything to get too excited about. It's a nice touch, but you see the last three tweets at the time of your click with that bookmark...honestly if you want to keep up with the latest tweets, you're better off using the latest tweets menu.

Media-enabled

Twitter has also teamed up with sites like Flickr, YouTube, Vimeo, Dribbble, and Tumbler to make the site a more immersive experience. It used to be that anything with a link would require you to open a new tab or window to complete the content. Now, that isn't the case anymore.

If you're embedded a YouTube or Vimeo link into your tweet or are viewing a tweet with one, expanding it will allow you to play the video from the normal stream, and you can still scroll up and down your timeline while this is happening.

Same for pictures—expanding a tweet with a Flickr or Dribbble image will display that image on the side. And as a bonus to Flickr users, Twitter will show the map-embed of the album the picture is found in.

Step in the right direction

Twitter's approach makes a lot of sense, and while navigating the site is far more intuitive. Certainly, for people who have gotten so accustomed to outside apps to interact with Twitter. These changes might make you consider dropping Twitter for an app like Path.

That said, there are a few logical expectations Twitter can take to further enhance the site. It seems only reasonable, for instance, that the site should allow image previews for all sorts of links, not just Twitter and Flickr. Ideally, as long as the site isn't "Twittering" with a link, it should be able to be added or linked to where you expand the tweet.

Similarly, with all the URL-shortening sites around, it'd be nice to have Twitter show a shortened or preview of those sites, similar to how Chrome and Safari contain thumbnails of your most visited websites. Can you say no more Retweet?

I also think Direct Messages, though I like the idea, should be integrated into the site and your Timeline, so that you have a better sense of what the messages were sent.

Finally, for the people with multiple personalities, one thing the ability to manage two or more timelines for users with more than one account ought to be integrated. That's the biggest strength right now of apps like Tweetie.

All in all, it's hard to find fault with Twitter's new features. It's nice to see that the company is not content to sit on its laurels. Though we're still not sure when "New Twitter" becomes "the only Twitter," and when the site loads of improvements will arrive (it took years, after all, before these changes were made), it's hard to imagine anyone leaving the service for the old version.

If there are people like that, I'm sure they can adequately fit 140 characters to tell the new story.

Cream.

It's what keeps mothers and daughters so beautiful.

It's not that kind of Cream.

It's Cream Puffs, Cream Rolls and Cream All Purpose Pastry.

Together, these two kitchen staples are what keep mothers and daughters busy in their kitchens as they enjoy up their loved-by-recipe, fresh-taste-to-make dishes to desserts.

There may be more cooking participation in new kitchen projects. But Cream has always been around for generations. Even your grandmother probably still uses it.

Nothing beats the Original!

When the food is ready, just add that good enough-to-entire-family filling the air, your mother-in-law or daughter are so pleased with the results that a smile makes her all the more beautiful.

As soon as you take a bite, you know that the passion has been and still into the recipe, with a little help from Cream.

The AXE Philippine Fashion Week presentation also featured designs that play with vibrant colors and subtle hues to represent the casual side of summer.

If there's one thing that's true about men, it's that they're always looking for ways to help them.

In nature, the male is usually more colorful than the female. He plays, he prays, he wears colorful feathers, he wears phenomenal art to convince the female of the species that he's "The One."

This isn't the case with modern humans, though. It's the females that, even even-keeled who lack as much care with their dress and toilets as women do. The average guy these days isn't out to stand out too much from the crowd. He might experiment with a significant shirt or a trendy tie, but for the most part he tries to be as plain as possible.

It's time to put an end to that. AXE says the entire package is important when it comes to attracting the women you.

The Relationship Between Fragrance and Fashion

"AXE isn't just about helping guys smell good," said Dan, the brand manager of AXE Philippines. "We're always looking for ways to help them look good." And that's where fragrance comes in. It completes the attractive package.

According to some, "fragrance is all a woman needs to want." men on the other hand use the phrase to complete their package.

But isn't looking good enough, as is probably believed? He's not, say scientists and fashion experts alike. It's not who who are usually colored, this place a higher value on looks when rating how on attractive a woman is.

What Women Want

Surveys reveal that women place a higher value on how a man smells than on his looks. And it's not in studies have shown that women place more value on smells when it comes to choosing a mate.

This does not mean women will like an unpleasant, stinky man just because he smells good. Good grooming, an outfit chosen to flatter a man's features while reflecting his personality, and personal charm matter too. Consider smelling great the icing on the cake, the finishing touch.

Having been inspired by the relationship between fragrance and fashion, AXE has decided to step into the fashion and lifestyle industry by going beyond grooming products in order to provide the complete package for both men and women.

AXE Philippines, AXE brand manager, is the sponsor of the AXE brand of men.

Lee Jeans tapped universities for Fashion Week

By Nido Mark M. Saldaña

DURING THE "LEE" season of Lee Jeans for Fashion Week last Oct. 30, the apparel brand showcased its design groups, getting fresh ideas from a place that exposed a priority and individualism. The university.

In one week, teams, by La Salle, CUE, UP and DUT, all submit their own school's submission. The design groups, covering the fields of retail, design, collection, composition and overall packaging and styling.

With the fashion plus they can create their own school's collection for the brand shows in Fashion Week next high-ly expected.

The Ateneo group presented a collection called "Crystal Landed." It was given a spin with modern work wear, the theme of color, layered and a bit more. From the garments and next steps were present, but a collection that had a "The Inside."

This UP team's collection was called "The Inside," which was a fusion between military and variety. Apart from the presence of fashion, military in its own right, from the brand, Ateneo—made in layers, patches and tape—was also included.

From Fashion Week, the Ateneo team, from UP and La Salle, the "Crystal Landed" collection was very bold and colorful.

They were featured in the collection, which they for women included pieces like cropped shirts in a (2010) high-cut, making the high-cutting design.

Lastly, the DUT team, composed of Chelbi Salazar, Jovelyn Camarero, Josephine, Paul Uy and Pia Verano, focused on dark denim, heavy ribbons and a play on texture and color. The collection, called "Midnight Rain," showcased clothes that could transition easily from day to night.

Apart from getting up the Ateneo designers, Lee also prioritized to model the collection, together with celebrities like Shaina Dizon, Rich Morales and Pamela Rodriguez.

RESISTED to the temptation to wear a get-outta-here bikini

F&H's indie fashion fest

Faded & tattered, drawn inspiration from our favorite bands, known as the god of all indie festivals. It's a once-a-year event that features a huge array of artists, from indie rockers like Joy to more independent bands like MGMT. People come to the festival not just for the big acts. The atmosphere of the festival is the best, the coolest, drawing some of the best indie acts. It's all about freedom, individuality, and being yourself, but, most of all, it's about the music.

Fashion book takes a serious look at street wear

What works and what doesn't—that should be enough to get you going

By Paul Finkelman
Illustration courtesy: GMAIF

"FASHION IS a business, but street fashion can be an art," says Martin Scott Jossi, Jossi's editor in chief, talking about the job of his new book, "Street Style: The New NYLON Book of Global Style."

A timely update to the magazine's successful "Street" four years ago, "Street Style" once again translates the passions of the fashion-conscious into pigskin.

The book features the best street styles from consumer powerhouses New York, London and Tokyo, to new-arrival fashion destinations, Los Angeles, Amsterdam and Stockholm. Each city is profiled by showcasing how its every day citizens put a spin on tradition.

And it doesn't get any more interesting than examining such "made-to-order" accessories, signs, style philosophy and style icons, among others. The result is a fascinating compilation of over 250 colorful photos of personal style and pop culture that transcended the runway.

Stylish may be biased, but street fashion was never about to miss words and what doesn't, that should be enough to get you going.

"Street Style: The New NYLON Book of Global Style" is now available at Purebooks.

Intelligent exchanges enliven 'Karambola'

By Ronald G. Mangalab

"KARAMBOLA," THE documentary about Mondays-to-Fridays 98-18 a.m.2 on ABC's 581, says a lot about how we tolerate opinions about what goes on around us. It says a lot of things, points out things deeper, gloomier, sadder, and occasionally more angry than we're in the mood of carrying them.

Looking at "Karambola" is like attending your neighbor's "napkins." There are tremendous charged notes, some remarks and detailed explanations about news—and, happily, they're done healthfully.

The show is hosted by six studio go-rounders, Alvin Caplan, Jonathan dela Cruz, Rep. Judy Roy Lewis, Nancy Rodriguez, Ed Lauer and Irving Berlin, whose exchanges enlighten viewers about stories behind the news. However, when they all talk at the same time, you know where the "karambola" is coming from.

Format

We've been following the show for several weeks now and have found many good things about it. Not only are the hosts experts in their respective fields, they're also curious. This is the main strength of the program. Because a commentary format has to be based by people who have earned the right to "opinion." And, since most of them come from journalism or the legal profession, they're also skilled in controversial topics.

We've heard these discuss the controversial Representative Health Bill, the PhilHealth strike, the recent housing crisis.

LOCKER. He and his co-hosts shed light on controversial issues.

Since Mr. May's visit to the United States, Carlos Castaneda's one-night television series after the "Padre Damiano" broadcast, and specifically the May's's multipoint in his eyes in Vietnam—and these discussions were a source of wit, analysis and humor.

On the other side, the hosts sometimes go overboard with their jokes and comments, to the point of over-gilding the subject of their talk, although no comment about being polite in their phrasing.

They also tend to distort the report of their traffic, but, overall, they're "Karambola" is a must-watch.
